

Abstract of the Article
"Coordination movement analysis model of economic tangible and financial subjects flows"
by V. Malakhov

The aim of the research can be defined as tangible and financial flows movement coordination analysis of real economy's sector enterprises regarded through the influence of different factors.

To make a comparative analysis and to define the most significant factors is hardly possible without generalization of the approach towards tangible and financial flows movement coordination revealing.

In the research presented the author has made an attempt to outline several influences generalization approach principles viewed as economic and financial subjects flows movement coordination.

The approach is determined by creation of different factors evaluating structural model based on regressive methods analysis.

By these means it becomes possible to provide a multi-level analysis with regards of economic relations which can be considered as different factors influence result. It also enables to define the most significant factors of economic tangible and financial subjects flows movement coordination.

Further research may be aimed at making the corresponding practical analysis of some particular enterprises.