

Abstract of the Article
"Analysis of Fuel Supplies on the Market of Oil Products of Ukraine: Import Aspect"
by A. Dronova

It is specified that last years of Ukrainian oil market are characterized by a fierce competition between domestic enterprises of oil industry and foreign enterprises, which import energy resources to the country. Ukrainian oil market is very dependant not only on import of raw oil, which is used for processing at domestic refineries, but also on import of final oil products, which are intended for final consumers.

In connection with the fact that the lavish part of total volume of oil consumption in Ukraine constitutes import fuel, the author believes that it is essential to estimate a domestic oil market dependence on import. For this purpose it has been offered to use import index. For receiving an adequate market assessment, it is vital to conduct an annual analysis of consumption of main oil products.
