

Abstract of the Article

"The Topical Approaches of the International Economic Management of the Enterprise Activity"

by Ya. Polyakova

The global changes of forming and developing international business conditions on the basis of rising the correlation of economic activity results of the international market subjects and the significant degree of the internal reserves cooperation for the purpose of achieving the strategic aims require the improvement of the existing concept of the international economic management of the enterprise activity on the basis of introducing formalized system approach on analyzing the results of the economic activity and accepting the long-term management decisions.

The further development of this research is the formalization of the management decisions of the international enterprise activity in terms of a system approach that allows identifying the structure logic sequence and interrelation between the result and the internal processes of the enterprise on conditions of taking into account the effects of all the subsystems of the management and guarantee of the international economic development in the long-term perspective.

The results ensure the balance of the available internal reserves of the enterprise with dynamic possibilities of the environmental development and allow providing its stable economic growth on the international market.