“The Mechanism of Financing the Reconstruction of the Megapolis Housing Resources under Conditions of Budget Resources Shortage” by D. Levchynskyi

One of the main problems associated with the reconstruction of houses is the organization of investment security. Consequently, financial problems are connected with the lack of budget funds for the reconstruction and finding some financing schemes at the expense of private investors. In this connection the reconstruction projects which require minimum budget allocations would be advisable, i.e. projects that will be mainly financed by private investors.
