The eternal debates of materialists, idealists and people with religious world-view are based on the following: what is primary – idea or substance, thought, object or shape; what can a person rely on – intellect or feelings. In the modern world the synthesis of rationalism, irrationalism and sensualism has given to society new individuals who are looking at the world in the light of mental laws, forming their own stands in life.

The aim of the article is to present the theoretical aspects of mental laws and show their positive effect on the fifth-year students` life from the position of their own perception of the world.

Mental laws influence a person regardless if he knows them or not. But human mind is permanently in search of truth and in permanent analysis. For example, let us take 8 the fifth-year students and analyze with the help of Saadi hierarchy method, which of the seven laws they consider as the priority basing on their own life experience.

It is possible to conclude that modern students who will fill up labour market and the definite social unit, establish family bonds, are not only aware about mental laws but they try to use them with maximum advantage, managing their own lives and believe in great future.
